

New Vendor at SES: Strand

SES is excited to introduce a new IP video surveillance vendor partner – Strand.

Strand was founded on the belief that the possibilities in the surveillance software management industry are vast given the industry expectation of convergence from analog to digital IP technologies. Strand has pioneered a 'decidedly different' digital IP software management solution that is continuously enhanced to provide our clients the opportunity to create complex surveillance management solutions to suit their ever-changing needs.

Strand offers the most technologically advanced, non-proprietary, open architecture IP video surveillance management solutions in the industry. Strand's open-architecture platform will support virtually any IP camera, encoder and other peripheral surveillance products on the market.

Strand collaborates with manufacturers offering best of breed products to allow for full utilization of a security solution for all facets. Offering the highest corporate IT standards and infrastructure, Strand dealers are able to customize the solutions they need to meet their specific physical security surveillance challenges with the highest levels of efficiency and functionality.

Strand's company-wide commitment to develop a solution that is continuously enhanced and modified to meet the ever-changing technology standards is a crucial priority for Strand. For more information on Strand and their product line, call us today or visit <http://www.strandusa.com>.
